Experience

ESADE Business & Law School
Associate Professor
September 2016 - Present (9 years 8 months)
Barcelona Area, Spain

Research Interests: Regeneration, sustainable agriculture, green cities, sustainability governance, practices and practice change

I develop and teach courses on sustainability and its links with strategy and leadership to Master of Science and MBA students. I supervise a PhD student, and I co-organize a "Business and Society" research seminar.

MIT Sloan School of Management
PHD Candidate
September 2010 - August 2016 (6 years)
Cambridge, MA

In my dissertation, I examine whether sustainability standards effectively improve the livelihoods of farmers, by studying the cocoa value chain in Ghana, Ecuador and Brazil with qualitative and quantitative methods.

Harvard University
Co-Principal Investigator (PI)
April 2009 - August 2016 (7 years 5 months)
Cambridge, MA

As a Co-PI of a Harvard research team, I supervised, co-designed and implemented a baseline study with more than 2,800 household interviews in 335 communities on living conditions and sustainability in the cocoa sector in Ghana. I also established partnerships with the Ghanaian government, multinational corporations, and non-governmental organizations.

Dialogos

Senior Consultant

September 2005 - August 2010 (5 years)

Cambridge, MA

Dialogos serves clients with organizational change consulting and collective leadership development. I developed organizational “x-ray” diagnostics on organizational structure and culture, based on in-depth interviews with executives and frontline workers for BP and US Forest Service. I convened and co-designed multi-stakeholder policy forums for international development clients.

KfW

Consultant

June 2004 - August 2004 (3 months)

Frankfurt Am Main Area, Germany

KfW is the German development bank. I coordinated a multi-donor negotiation for the restructuring of refinancing funds (European Fund for Southeast Europe EFSE, volume of EUR 133 million), and appraised a municipal lending project (volume of EUR 9 million).

McKinsey

Associate

August 2001 - July 2003 (2 years)

Cologne Area, Germany

McKinsey & Company is a global strategy consulting company. I performed due diligence analyses and developed strategies for operations and branding for clients in the telecommunication, finance, and retail sector.
